

Under information literacy program the Central Library organized workshop on Scopus and Mendeley on 17th April 2015. Scopus is a simple, single entry-point, easy to use and can integrate our library resources, provide hyperlink to the full text if subscribed by the library. Mendeley is free academic software to manage, share, read, annotate and cite your research papers and a research network to manage your papers online discover research trends and statistics, and to connect to like-minded researchers. The responses were excellent and about 100 faculty and research scholars got benefitted from the workshop
